Jim Harper is a retired widower who lives in a quiet cul-de-sac. His neighbor, Dora Pritchard, has taken to feeding a horde of feral cats. In particular a one-eyed, black tom cat she calls Inky. Her sunset feedings have gotten out of hand and the dozens of stray cats are ruining Jim's meticulously kept yard as well as his peace and quiet each evening. When Jim threatens to notify animal control to eliminate the cats, events begin to spiral out of control. Jim is forced to take a stand against Inky and the clan of feral cats.
