[Advance Reader Copy edition of this book (ASIN: B01MQQM026)] A brutal shooting made Detective Will Danner a wealthy man but cost his best friend and partner, Detective Robert Weld, and his serenity. The one thing he was born to be was a cop. When Sheriff Ray Stettler offered him a job in his department, Will took him up on it. The last thing he was expecting when he walked in that door the first day was to find the love of his life, Deputy Sheriff, Joseph Albright. Joe's fundamentalist parents had beaten being straight into him. Sent to Military School because of a teen age kiss with the boy he had a crush on, he put being gay behind him except for a few hidden moments of what he considered weakness. The one time he was true to himself, disaster struck and he crawled back inside his closet. Can Will's love be enough for him to make a stand? And when a serial killer comes to call, Will's life may depend on it.
