My wife had been faking it?! Five years of marriage, two years of dating before that, the only orgasms she'd had were . . . "of her own creation," either genuine—but the product of toys or her own fingers—or simply performances for my benefit? I'd thought I was, generally speaking, sexually competent—at the very least! Apparently not. I was too fast, too small, and too awkward, she informed me. However—not to worry!—she assured me she had found a solution, a way in which we could remain married, a way in which we could both have our needs met. She'd made an appointment for us, I was informed, for the following day: When I would be introduced to The Clinic—and my life (and my wife!) would be utterly and forever changed.
