Virginia's Chesapeake Bay area is the backdrop for the story of Harold, a troubled young professional, and his smart, determined wife Bonnie. On the verge of divorce, the young couple is caught between growing financial problems, a religious cult that believes Harold is a prophet, and an eerie motorcycle club with a mute, wild-haired mascot named Gator. Skeptical Bonnie fights to free her husband from the strange world into which he has fallen while Harold struggles with bizarre happenings and unusual revelations that just may prove he really is a prophet with miraculous powers.
