Some say the paranormal and the demonic aren't real, but they are wrong. We are living proof. We are human. We are natives and the true masters of this land. We aren't superheroes. There is nothing good about us, but we are righteous in our own eyes. We live in the shadows of the Anglo world and live by the oral laws of our forgotten ancestors. We are killers of the Reborn faith. If you believe in God, then you should fear us. If you think your God can protect you from us, He can't. We are trained from the age of thirteen to hunt down the most powerful Reborns on earth. No one has survived their encounter with us. Until now. From the moment, Bodaway Lakota, a six-teen year old Naiche warrior, encounters Natalie Schultz, an Awakened Reborn, he knows he is out-classed in every way. Him and his clan are ordered by the Covenant to hunt down and behead her at all cost. He finds ways to out smart his enemy by changing her physical appearance and going by the name, Tristan. Despite his motive to deceive and slay her, she welcomes him into her life through a false friendship. After a series of dark episodes, their relationship blossoms into something truly unexpected. The two, one light and one dark, become close and a new forbidden friendship is born. Trouble arises when his clan discovers their secret and seek out to kill Natalie as originally planned. Tristan is left with a decision to choose between his clan or his new forbidden friendship.
