Radio Wyecheater was failing, and no one could hide the fact much longer. As advertising controller, Storm Templeton stood to lose a lot. She had worked long and hard to garner clients for the station. So she should have been happy when Jago Marsh stepped in. He was noted for his media expertise -- as well as for a few other things that Storm didn't care to think about! No. She had no need of this suave, commanding man, either at the office -- or at home!
